The reference of what it means to be a "light being" is already similar to the knowledge that our physical body is composed of particles of atoms, electrons etc.. The smallest particle within us isn't attached to another particle, these particles within us are just hovering like vapor. The concept of Ascension is the rearrangement of these particles in the most optimal/grand state where you become whole, have full access to your faculties and free of aging & disease.

Ascension means to rise and relevant to this website Ascension is the rising of your corporeal form into a higher or purer density of matter. In physics all matter is particles vibrating at different frequencies or "speeds".
